HUNGARY'S
VACANT THRONE.*COUP D'ETAT RUMOUR
FALSIFIED.*BRUSSELS COMING-OF-AGE
CEREMONY.*STORY OF INTRIGUES.

Rumours rise in Europe for some months past centred upon the coming of age of the Archduke Franz Joseph Otto, the continent's most discussed young man—and suggesting a possible attempt to regain his lost throne in Hungary by a coup d'état, temporarily at least, appear to have been set at rest.

The young Prince celebrated his 18th birthday—his official majority—yesterday. A reception was held in Brussels by his mother, the ex-Empress Zita, an exile, at which prominent Austrian and Hungarian royalists paid their respects, to be disappointed if they anticipated a dramatic gesture in the form of a declaration that the Prince regards himself as King.

Confiscated Property.

It is still rumoured, however, that officials are planning to claim for him part of the Hapsburg property confiscated by the Austrian Republic.

Brussels, Nov. 20.

The Ex-Empress Zita of Hungary, who since the death of King Karl (Charles) IV of Hungary, has been living in exile in Brussels, received delegations from the Austrian and Hungarian Legitimists on the occasion of the coming of age of her eldest son, the Archduke Otto.

Now Head of the Hapsburgs.

In a short address, Princess Zita of Bourbon-Parmal announced that Prince Otto would henceforth be the sole head of the House of Hapsburg (the Royal House of Hungary).

It may be recalled that King Charles was expelled from Hungary after the war, but the country, though ruled by a Regent is still constitutionally a Kingdom.

Many intrigues have, of course, centred round the empty throne.

Belgian Intervention Story.

Rumours have lately been current of possible Belgian intervention on behalf of Prince Otto and of a possible "putch."

The Archduke's tutor stated to-day, however, that the ex-Empress Zita had instructed him to inform the Belgian Minister for Foreign Affairs that she had no intention of any attempt regarding the throne of Hungary.—Reuter.

Austro-Hungarian Views.

Budapest, Nov. 20.

At a Legitimist meeting held here on the occasion of the coming-of-age of Archduke Otto, Count Apponyi declared that it was the duty of the Legitimists to act when the circumstances permitted, and to bring back the King.

He added, however, that they would take no immediate steps to realize their aim if that meant danger to property.—Reuter.

Vienna, Nov. 20.

Many National Associations throughout Austria have passed a resolution against the restoration of the Hapsburgs, and favouring Austro-German fusion.—Reuter.

The family was expelled in November, 1918, and the ex-King Charles died in Madeira in 1922, soon after two abortive attempts to regain the throne had resulted in his banishment by the Allies.

Regarded As King.

In April, 1922, a conference of the Legitimate Parties in Hungary declared that it regarded the eldest son of King Charles, the Archduke Otto, as King of Hungary with the title of Otto II, and that his coronation had been prevented merely by his major. The Hungarian Government replied by decreeing the abolition of the Hapsburg Dynasty, a decision not welcomed by the Legitimists as

MAHATMA GANDHI'S GRIP ON INDIA.

VIGOROUS APPEAL TO CONFERENCE.

CONGRESS PARTY NOT A SAVAGE BARBARIAN HORDE.

EASY TO BRING ROUND.

MEMBERS of the All-India Congress are not hereditary criminals, savage barbarian hordes, or sworn enemies of Great Britain, they are men of culture and honour who, most of them, have made their mark in their professions, declared the Rt. Hon. Mr. Sastri at the Round Table Conference yesterday, discounting the fears that any constitution framed would fall into the hands of the Congress.

Remove the discontent, he added, and you will find them alongside you working for the new constitution. It is easy to bring our enemies round.

This was the most striking speech of nineteen that were delivered yesterday, though Begum Shah Nawaz, in Oriental garb of great splendour, scored a great personal triumph. Mr. Ramsay MacDonald sending her a note of congratulation upon a forceful address.

Willingness regarding safeguards during the transitional period emerged, and the strong Hindu element appears to have been swayed towards moderation by the bright hopes aroused by the contribution of the Princes towards the problem of federation.

PROMISE OF CONCILIATION.

London, Nov. 20.

It was found impossible to conclude to-day the general discussion at the Round Table Conference. The ten-minute rule was applied, nineteen more speeches were heard, but five other delegates will speak to-morrow including the Prime Minister, before the Plenary Session, which began on Monday, definitely ends.

The Nawab of Bengal opened to-day's discussions, by expressing the opinion that the Hindu-Muslim tension (which was non-existent in the Indian States) occurred in British India solely for political reasons.

Earl Reading confessed that he had been increasingly astonished by the dazzling swiftness with which the East seems to outdistance the West.

The Conference was memorable because it gave India a chance to put her case before and not after the Government had reached conclusions.

A Great Advance.

The revelation of the Prince's answer to the common call of Country with British India was a great advance.

But many questions had to be decided before India reached the goal they were all trying to attain. It was notable that the Government of India, the Viceroy and members of the Council both British and Indian, differed but little from the conclusions reached by the Statutory Commission.

A great change had taken place since the preparation of the Nanking Instructions for the Extermination of "Reds."

Chinling to Lead.

In accordance with a resolution of the Fourth Kuomintang Plenary Session, which demands that the Nanking Government should suppress all bandits in China within three months, Marshal Chiang Kai-shek is leaving Nanking on Tuesday for Hankow, where he will establish the Headquarters of the anti-Communist expedition.

Nationalist officers have been sent to Hankow and Nanchang, the capital of Kiangsi, to make preparations for the coming inspections by Marshal Chiang.

It is the desire of the Nanking Generalissimo personally to direct his picked troops for the eradication of "Reds."

Nanking and Mukden.

With a view to combating the rotations between Nanking and Mukden, Marshal Chang Kai-shek and General Chang Hsueh-liang have arrived at a decision to inaugurate a through express service between Pukow and Mukden. The wish of the Nanking and Mukden Commanders has met with the support of the experts of the Tientsin-Pukow and Peking-Mukden Railways. The managements of these two railways have announced the intention to run four through expresses from Pukow to Mukden every ten days.

The first Nanking-Mukden through express will leave Nanking on Monday.

YOCHEW'S FEAR OF BANDITS.

BIG GANGS NEARING THE CITY.

GOVERNMENT PLAN TO WIPE OUT THE "REDS."

CHIANG TO LEAD.

Hankow, Nov. 20.

The appearance of large gangs of Communist bandits at Hwang Kow, some twenty miles to the south-east of Yochow, the flourishing commercial centre near the Hupeh-Hunan frontier, is causing considerable uneasiness. The military authorities at Yochow have declared martial law, fearing a second invasion by the "Reds."

The precarious situation is having a serious effect on the trade of Yochow with Hankow and Wuchang and all communication between these cities has been interrupted. An independent band of Communist desperadoes is known to be active some fifty miles from Yochow.

Hankow Reinforcements.

The Nationalist Garrison Commanders at Hankow have sent two regiments to Yochow to assist the meagre contingent of soldiers stationed there.

Conditions in Kiangsi have shown some improvement since the arrival at Kiangsi of General Lu Ti-ping, the Military Governor of Kiangsi, who will personally direct the war against the bandits. The Kiangsi Governor has wired to Hankow, claiming the recapture from the Communists of Yungfeng, Kishui and Loan Hsien.

Bandits defeated in Central Kiangsi are retiring towards Nanfeng.

Arms Seized.

Concerning the recapture of Kiangsi, the Kiangsi Commander reports to Nanking that a large quantity of arms and ammunition was seized from the bandits.

It will be recalled that on account of the Communist occupation, French and other missionaries have been subjected to torture, whilst a Chinese Christian leader, Father Paul Cheng, was recently beheaded by bandits outside the Cathedral at Kiangsi.

The Nanking Generalissimo, Marshal Chiang Kai-shek, has wired to the Kiangsi Garrison Command, commanding the vigilance and efficiency of General Lu Ti-ping in the carrying out of the Nanking Instructions for the Extermination of "Reds."

GERMAN CLAIM TO MORATORIUM.

DR. CURTIUS'S HINT AT REICH COUNCIL.

FINANCIAL REFORMS.

Berlin, Nov. 20.

The Council of the Reich to-day unanimously adopted the Budget and also the Bill regarding the reduction of the salaries of members of the Cabinet, Civil Servants and members of the Reichstag.

The possibility of Germany demanding a moratorium under the Young Plan was hinted at by Dr. Curtius, the Minister for Foreign Affairs, in a speech to the Council of the Reich, in which he reviewed foreign affairs at some length.

Dr. Curtius declared that Germany would not tear up the Young Plan, but they had never given a guarantee that the plan was capable of being carried out.

No one yet knew whether the financial reforms, designed to put Germany's house in order, would be adequate, or whether Germany might also have to avail herself of the international provisions included in the Young Agreement for the protection of her economic life (namely, the moratorium).—Reuter.

Treaty Revision Claim.

Referring to disarmament, Dr. Curtius was very sceptical regarding the statements by M. Tardieu that France had disarmed considerably since the war.

He said Germany demanded the speedy summoning of the General Disarmament Conference, at which a final decision must be reached of Germany's claim for disarmament which would bring equal security to all.

Regarding the question of a revision of the Peace Treaty, he said it had been long notorious that Germany did not consider it possible to acquiesce in the present position of affairs, especially in the East.—Reuter.

DOX ONCE AGAIN IN TROUBLE.

FORCED TO DESCEND WHILE AT SEA.

Bordeaux, Nov. 20.

The giant seaplane DoX alighted on the sea off Santander at 2 p.m., for reasons which are unknown.

All aboard are well.

Santander, later.

It is now stated that the descent of the DoX was due to bad weather.

The flying-boat came down gently, apparently under perfect control.—Reuter.

A previous message from Bordeaux stated that the DoX had left for Corunna prior to her Atlantic flight. Besides the crew, there were thirteen passengers, including Lady Drummond Hay, who missed the DoX at Calshot.

THE ROUND TABLE CONFERENCE.

FURTHER SPEECHES BY INDIAN DELEGATES.

WORKERS' REQUEST.

London, Nov. 20.

An amended proposal of the Business Committee which comes before the Indian Round Table Conference, at the conclusion of the plenary discussion, recommends the establishment of a Federal Relations Committee to consider the structure of the federal system of government as regards relations between the Indian States and British India, and relations between the Indian Princes and British India and the centre, including the question of responsibility at the centre, and to recommend the main principles to be applied.

The constitution of the committee is as previously cabled.

The Indian Round Table Conference resumed the general discussion this morning, and the session will probably be continued this afternoon. Owing to the length of some of the speeches, only fourteen speakers have been heard in the past three days. It is hoped that with the time limit for speeches exercised at the discretion of the president, a greater number of speakers will be heard to-day.

Atmosphere of Goodwill.

At the continued general discussion the Nawab of Bhopal said that they met in an atmosphere of goodwill, which had been fostered throughout his Viceregalty by Lord Irwin, one of the greatest Viceroys and best friends India had ever had. In such an atmosphere, they should be able to settle the essentials for securing a future of peace, happiness and prosperity for India, as a contented member equal in status with the rest of the community of self-governing nations constituting the British Empire.

He agreed that the Indian States could contribute as a stabilising factor in the constitution of a United Federal India. Nothing in the system of federation was connected with interference with the internal affairs of the States, whose treaties with the Crown would remain unaltered, except by mutual consent, and the federation would concern itself solely in matters of common interest to be defined by mutual consent. Federation also must be equal on both sides, and there could be no question of the status of the States being in any way subordinate to that of the rest of India. On those conditions, he entirely agreed with the principle of federation.

He emphasised that among the Princes no rift existed as between Muslims and Hindus, and that in the Indian States communal tension was practically nonexistent. There was nothing in their respective religions which should lead to such ill-will, and the reason why it had arisen in British India had been solely political.

The Workers' Representative.

Mr. Joshi, speaking on behalf of the workers of India, said he and Shiva Rao had come to the conference in the hope that, with the help and sympathy of the other delegates, the constitution of a self-governing India would be so framed that the political influence of the workers would be much greater than it is to-day. For this purpose, they would like the constitution to contain a declaration of the fundamental rights of the workers; secondly, that the constitution be founded upon universal adult suffrage; and thirdly that labour legislation always remained a subject for the Federal Government, which should retain power of control, supervision and enforcement.

A Lady's Views.

The Begum Shah Nawaz, one of the two women in the conference, pointed out that her presence as a Muslim woman belonging to a Squadron Leader Wood served in the R.N.A.S. during the late War.

H.M.S. Kent's Cruises.

On December 2 H.M.S. Kent is to begin a cruise to the western part of the station, visiting Saigon, December 5-14, and Bangkok, December 16-21, and is due to spend Christmas at Singapore. About March 16 next the Kent will leave the station for home to rest and re-commission.

Submarines for China.

Approval has been given for four more of the submarines recently completed to proceed to the China Station. Twelve vessels of the War-built "L" class were withdrawn from the station several months ago. Four of the new "O" type, Odin, Osiris, Oswald and Otus, went out in the summer, accompanied by the new destroyer ship Medway. They are now to be followed by four of the "P" type, similar in design, but of a later programme, the Perseus, Pandora, Poseidon, and Proteus. These vessels will go unescorted. They are to leave Portsmouth on December 12, and to call at Gibraltar, Malta, Port Said, Aden, Colombo, Penang, and Singapore. To allow for rest and recreation for the crews, they will spend from two days to a week at each port of call, and will thus not reach Hongkong until about February 21, 1931.

family which always observed a strict "purdah" was an illustration that the so-called unchanged East was unchanging no longer.

In a big country like India, with so many different races and interests, the basic principle of Federation could alone succeed. A golden day for their country would be when Indian and British India would link themselves for the common purposes of forming themselves into one great nation. She urged the conference to give Indian women an adequate share in the administration of the nation, with equal status within the Commonwealth.

As True Friends.

Sir Mirza Ismail, the Prime Minister of Mysore, said the success of the conference would be tested mainly by how far they had been able to bring England and India closer together in the bonds of true friends and unity. There was a general agreement, in the conference and outside, that the future Government of India would be constructed on a Federal basis.

India was a land of many creeds and many communities. He believed every diversity of interests would go far to ensure the requisite stability in the democratic institutions that it was proposed to establish. The Indian sections of the conference were also agreed that a measure of responsibility should be introduced at the centre, if the constitution was to work satisfactorily and enjoy an adequate measure of confidence from the people.

"A constitution which provides full autonomy in the provinces and responsibility at the centre, subject to such transitional safeguards as may be necessary and unavoidable, and a close association between British India and the States in matters of common concern—this let us hope may be the result of our deliberations here."

Sir Ram Swami Alyar, the Indian Liberal, said that Federation not as a distant ideal but as practical politics, was envisaged.—Reuter and British Wires.

THE METAL MARKET.

RODOLF WOLFF AND CO'S. WEEKLY REVIEW.

London, Oct 31.
Markets have ruled firmer and, presenting on the whole a steadier appearance, with selling and liquidation on a somewhat reduced scale, prices are all higher as compared with those ruling a week ago.

Whilst displaying some irregularity, has been firmer, the price showing an advance of 27/6d to 30/- as compared with our last report. Sales in the East during the week amounted to 875 tons, shipments thence up to the 27th inst, were 6,989 tons, and for the month are expected to be about 7,500 tons. Premiums on Straits and Banks are quoted at £14.15.0 and £4.10.0 respectively, a fairly active business having at one time taken place in the exchange of Straits against Standard at a premium of £4.12.6. The market has presented a steady appearance for, whilst buyers have preserved a cautious attitude, displaying no anxiety to unduly advance prices, there has been some relaxation of selling pressure and liquidation has been on a reduced scale. The market, it might be said, has adopted a waiting attitude, the improvement on the stock markets and the easy monetary conditions are still shrouded in a good deal of uncertainty; the effectiveness of otherwise of the policy of restriction at present enforced by producing interests is still not too clearly definite and there is unfortunately little evidence of a definite improvement in the industrial situation whereby substantial recovery in consumption can be confidently anticipated.

Copper.

Copper has been firm and prices have substantially advanced, and though the highest levels have not been fully maintained, the market closes £12.6 higher as compared with our last report. The firmness may to some extent be attributed to reports connected with the meeting of producers shortly to be held in New York, when it is expected some policy might be formulated which would enable the market to recover from the depressed condition into which it has recently fallen, but apart from this little or nothing has occurred to warrant advancing prices; though a fairly active business has been attracted on an important scale by the rise which has taken place and the future must still be dependent to a large extent on the heavy stocks which have accumulated and whether or not genuine trade demand will so far improve as to bring about an appreciable reduction.

Lead.

Lead, whilst subjected to slight irregularity, has been rather firmer, the price showing an advance of about 10/- since our last report. The market opened with rather easier tendency, but latterly developed firmness following some fairly active buying of a general character, in face of which sellers showed some disposition to withhold. The better appearance which the market has presented is due partly to sentiment and to some extent is in sympathy with the firmness of copper and the rather steadier undertone which has characterised commodity markets on the whole. In the U.S.A., the market remains quiet, and little variation is reported in the price.

TRADE MISSION ARRIVES.

of Canada, and of which I have the honour to be Vice-President, has sent this Trade Mission to Hongkong and China. It has a four-fold purpose, namely, to reflect the goodwill and friendliness of Canada's business interests; to acquire knowledge of trade conditions and requirements; to establish personal contacts; and to promote mutual understanding with a view to the further expansion of our bi-lateral trade on a mutually advantageous basis.

"Included in our party are representatives of three of the leading Canadian Banks; two Managing-Directors of large daily newspapers; five representatives of Canadian lumbering and manufacturing interests; a member of the legal profession who is also on several business directorates; two technical engineers; a financier, a representative of the distributing trade; a representative of the import trade of Canada; a representative of our transportation systems; the Vice-President and the Secretary of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

"Five of our Delegation, on special business bent, have been spending the past week in Peking. Other members are at present at Peking, and still others have remained a few days longer at Shanghai and will join us here next week.

"We have all been looking forward with the keenest of anticipation to our sojourn in Hongkong and we one and all sincerely trust that our visit will prove of appreciable and mutual benefit."

Entirely Successful.

Mr. Inglis, who is the Vice-President of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, said that they regarded their mission as entirely successful to date, and were gratified with the cordial receptions they had received from the business men of the cities they had visited.

In Shanghai they were entertained to dinner by the Mayor of Greater Shanghai, as well as by the Chinese Chamber of Commerce. The British Chamber entertained them to luncheon and they also attended a reception given by the Ministry for Foreign Affairs and the Ministry of Commerce and Industry.

The delegates leave to-night for Canton, where they will be received and entertained by the Consul General, whilst they will attend a dinner given in their honour by the Chamber of Commerce. Subsequently they are to meet a number of business men in conference, this having been arranged by the Canton Chamber of Commerce.

Subsequently they are to meet a number of business men in conference, this having been arranged by the Canton Chamber of Commerce.

The Commission will return to Hongkong and remain here until Thursday next.

This morning, the large proportion of the delegates set off for a trip round the island, many expressing keen anticipation of viewing the beauties of the Colony.

SHAMEEN FOOTBALL LEAGUE.

NARROW WIN FOR THE MOORHEN.

Shameen, Nov. 29.—H.M.S. Moorhen defeated H.M.S. Moth by one goal to nil in the Shameen Football League yesterday afternoon. A very good match was witnessed and the game was very even. Watkins scored the only goal of the match about ten minutes before the close, netting the ball with a beautifully placed shot. The team were:

H.M.S. Moorhen.—F. J. Breed; E. C. Beach, R. F. Morgan; A. J. Bates, D. McGill, R. C. Munro; R. Wood, Ah Wing, R. Tann, Lieutenant Brownrigg, E. Watkins.

H.M.S. Moth.—Biles; Brandon, Dewey; Shawyer, Nunn, Bennett; Hadkinson, Donstone, Beckett, Lieutenant Short, Purdy.—One Own Correspondent.

DOMINION EQUALITY.

In directing attention to the purely constitutional work achieved by the recent Imperial Conference, Mr. J. H. Thomas, the Dominions Secretary, has done well. The economic problems which came before the Conference have received so much attention that many people have been quite unaware that its primary object had nothing to do with economics, but, rather, with troublesome and complex constitutional issues. It is true that the Conference of 1926 on the Operation of Dominion Legislation declared that the British Commonwealth was "the most remarkable and successful experiment in co-operation between free democracies which has ever been developed," but that did not dispose of the fact that Great Britain had, and still has, in many circumstances, the theoretical right to over-ride the Parliamentary decisions of Dominions which habitually act as independent international and sovereign States. That fact was recognised when the 1926 Conference admitted "equality of status" but added that this did not always imply "equality of function."

The problem has now been squarely faced, and by what is to be known as "The Statute of Westminster" the existing legal restrictions on the legislative powers of the Dominion Parliaments are to be removed by conceding complete legislative autonomy. As one writer has expressed it, from the purely English point of view, the existing anomalies have not greatly mattered, since Britain has freely admitted that she could not, even if she wished, exercise the theoretical rights referred to. The Dominions, however, naturally look upon the question from a different angle: they want to square the law with their notion of the facts, to set their rights down in black and white, and to get "equality" precisely defined. It was in response to this desire for a definition that a Committee, as representative of the Dominions as of the Mother Country, enquired into the practical results of the recognition of equality between the various units of the British Empire. Many troublesome and difficult problems arose, but it was found possible to reach an agreement fully acceptable to the Dominions. The British Government showed that it had no desire to maintain a legal authority where there was no wish or power to enforce it. The right of a Bri-ish Government to "disallow" or "reserve" Dominion legislation has long since become a theoretical one, and the proposed abolition of these rights is without question a step in the right direction.

Two points may be mentioned in connexion with the changes which lie ahead. As one of Britain's leading journals has pointed out, if a Dominion which now has no merchant marine asserts its desire to fly its own flag to the exclusion of one which marks it as a member of the British Commonwealth, no thunder from Whitehall will deny its right to do so. But if the test actually came, the practical convenience of flying a flag which the British Navy will recognise and protect would be likely to weigh heavily against the pleasure of asserting an undisputed independence. Practical bonds such as these serve to reinforce the purely sentimental unity of the Commonwealth. Similarly, some people may be alarmed to learn that the functions of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council are to be modified, but they can take comfort in the fact that the need for some final Inter-Imperial Court is recognised even in those Dominions which have been inclined to flout the authority of the present one. It is surely better to have a special Arbitration Court for the Commonwealth and to have its decisions respected than to cleave to a purely British court of law which cannot enforce its jurisdiction. There are, of course, many other considerations which should cause us all to welcome the implementation of the 1926 equality declaration, but it will suffice if we say that the Conference which has just concluded has done much to facilitate co-operation within the British Commonwealth of Nations by removing out-of-date badges of inferiority.

A Tariff Argument.

While we cannot agree with all the arguments so lucidly set forth, a pamphlet from the pen of Mr. L.C.M.S. Amery on the subject of Britain's fiscal policy is notable as containing the first soundly reasoned analysis of the economic dilemma we have seen that advocates a tariff system, and it is deserving, at least, of a close study. Mr. Amery opens with an historical survey which contends that Britain's adoption of free imports dealt a disastrous check to the growth of Canada by leaving the Dominion naked to the pressure and competition of its larger and more developed neighbour. He says that among the consequences to Great Britain was an increase of foreign manufactures from £29,000,000 in the 1860's to £334,000,000 in 1929, while the proportion of British exports to nearly every market declined, and we have been saddled with an unemployment problem more acute than any other country. The comparative figures pay no regard to the tremendous growth of world trade in total volume, and it has yet to be proved that the last contention is a fact. The most striking part of the pamphlet, however, is that containing the argument in favour of Safeguarding by tariffs. In effect, he suggests that any duties imposed would, in the last analysis, take the form of a countervailing tariff. He argues this way. Britain's annual production of manufactures of £240,000,000 has to bear taxation, reaching in all categories to a total of £750,000,000. In the case of a direct and visible excise such as that on spirits, he points out, nobody dreams of suggesting that it would be possible to impose such an excise without a countervailing duty. But the disastrous effect, both to industry and the Exchequer, is just the same whether the excise is direct or indirect, that is, if there is no countervailing duty on manufactured imports. The effect of the system, as Mr. Amery sums it up, is in reality to give a tariff protection to more lightly taxed foreign competitors. A tariff on foreign manufactures, he says, would serve the purpose not only of isolating British industry to regain its firm footing in the home market, but would allow a reduction of taxation—thanks to income from this new source—and lead to a reduction in the cost of the British manufactured article.

Mr. Lee Hon-cheung, described as a merchant, yesterday complained to the police that his brother, Li Hon-sang, living at Lee Villa, Fanling, has been victimised by a man described as an Eurasian, who, by false pretences, it is stated, obtained from Li Hon-sang clothing to the value of $145. The alleged incident occurred at the Yau Ma Tei Railway station.

Richard Rubbands, the eight-year-old son of Battalion Quarter-Master-Sergeant Rubbands of the Royal Engineers, was yesterday bitten by a mongrel dog, the property of the Commander of H.M.S. Suffolk, which was being kept on Stonecutters Island. The lad received treatment from the military medical staff, while the dog has been sent to the Mataukok depot.

TO BE PROUD OF LEARNING IS THE GREATEST—IGNORANCE.—Jeremy Taylor.

Sir Claud Severn has been installed first Master of Lodge Malaya 5213, which is the fourth Masonic Lodge in London definitely associated with the Empire overseas.

Four Police Officers have returned from leave by the P. and O. Kalyan, namely, Sub-Inspectors James and Mair, and Police Sergeants Condon and Mist. The two senior officers are accompanied by their wives.

A quiet wedding took place this morning when Mr. H. Overy was married to Blanche Josephine Dunnett, nee Morgan, in the presence of a few friends. A luncheon was afterwards held at Mearns, Lane Crawford's restaurant. The honeymoon is being spent at Macao and Repulse Bay.

A post-mortem examination on the remains of a newly-born girl, which were found last week by a Chinese constable, dumped in a scavenging lane behind No. 94, Ha Wo Street, has resulted in the cause of death being recorded as "asphyxia and strangulation." The identity of the parents still remains a subject for police investigation.

Summoned for parking his car outside the Central Theatre for longer than was necessary, Cheung Yeo-fun, a private driver, was cautioned by Mr. Lindell at the Central Magistracy this morning. The defendant, who stated that he had gone to reserve seats for a performance, was said to have parked the car in the roadway for ten minutes.

Mr. Lee Hon-cheung, described as a merchant, yesterday complained to the police that his brother, Li Hon-sang, living at Lee Villa, Fanling, has been victimised by a man described as an Eurasian, who, by false pretences, it is stated, obtained from Li Hon-sang clothing to the value of $145. LOCAL SHIPBOKER ROBBED.

THIEF TAKES OVER $200 FROM OFFICE SAFE.

Mr. Brandt, a shipbroker, with offices on the second floor of St. George's Building, has reported to the police the theft from a safe of $268.29.

Apparently, the thief was conversant with the premises, for after entering the office by means of a duplicate key, he made for a drawer where the safe key was kept, thus giving him access to the contents of the safe.

"Yes, I know he's a good customer. But it gets my goat to have to fix up flowers that I know he's taking to my girl."

SYLVIA THOMPSON believes

IT PAYS MEN TO BE SENTIMENTAL.

MEN are born sentimental, whereas women, for generations, have merely had sentimental thrust upon them, required of them, attributed to them—because an unsentimental woman (as is now becoming evident) is a danger to masculine peace of mind, a rival to manly intelligence, and a disruptive force in a society made by men.

Masculine Dogma.

Many sentimental beliefs which men find beautiful in theory, and which they hold with ingenuous simplicity, have also been useful to them in practice and effect.

There is, for instance, a whole sentimental dogma dealing with women which must for centuries have confirmed the ordinary man in a sense of his own (and derived) superiority.

Mother-love—a man-mouthed phrase if ever there was one—is an idea, an ideal, a theme which men have never tired of praising and elaborating.

Motherhood has never failed to offer the masculine mind unfathomable depths of bathos from which he supper until, intoxicated by his own reflection in those depths, he went about the world coining sentimental phrases at the top of his voice (while his wife tried to soothe a screaming baby and, lucky for the state of her nerves, couldn't hear him proclaiming that "Motherhood is a woman's true Vocation"). "The hand that rocks the cradle rules the world."

Another aspect of this same sentimentality which glorifies woman in the measure of her sacrifice and self-effacement for man is the "mother-song" type of emotion, deliciously typified in the popular melody beginning:

"Old Pal, how I miss you tonight—and which presupposes inevitably that mothers always sit at home waiting for their prodigal sons.

"Sacred" Homes.

However, I will be fair. It is absurd to blame men for being sentimental when it has always been in their interest to be so. One scarcely cares to think how many "Homes" (another word from the sentimental's Dictionary) have been kept together by sentimentalism alone (the woman having been taught from girlhood how "sacred" the home is).

Indeed, no more extreme instance can be cited of what sentimental value, as opposed to a real value founded on mutual love and friendship, was attached to the "Home" in the last century than Lecky's remarkable defence of the woman, who, "herself the supreme type of vice, is ultimately the most efficient guardian of virtue. But for her the unchallenged purity of countless happy Homes would be polluted."

The passage is (read in the whole) a most interesting apotheosis of the glucose (but sincere) self-deception which enables so many men to excuse their injustice—to be, like the Papas of another generation, "always right"—or, in the event of a flagrant mistake, to forgive themselves, on account of that apocryphal.

Of business, its methods, dangers, and difficulties; of finance, accounts, administration; of British trade and industry, neither I nor any other public schoolboy knew, or knows, anything.

Except that many have an engineering side and an Army Class, our public schools are still run on the same lines as they were fifty years ago. It is still assumed apparently that the boys are either to be sons of country squires, or to go into the Church, law, medicine, or the higher Civil Service. Why don't the public schools face the facts?

What most boys need to-day is direct practical training for business and commerce. They should learn sound business practice, the fundamentals of accountancy, and of finance in its theory and practice. They should be able to take their places in great businesses or small with a full knowledge of the methods by which they are conducted. They should know the problems which arise in running a business, and how to recognise financial and other danger-signs.

They should be thoroughly grounded in the art of salesmanship, in the technique of foreign trade, and they should be able to dissect balance sheets and to analyse accounts. They should know the essence of the law of contract.

Also, they should be instructed in administration, in the art of management, in the secrets of judging and handling men. They should be able, when they leave school, to sum up any man who

THE HAPPY VALLEY INCIDENT.

YOUNG WOMAN FINED $100 OR SIX WEEKS.

ALLEGED AGITATOR.

The trouble among dissatisfied workers of the Nanyang Brothers' Tobacco Factory was again before Mr. Lindell at the Central Police Court this morning when a young woman appeared on remand on charges of participating in a public meeting without a permit from the Governor, and of behaving in a riotous and disorderly manner at a meeting of workers at Happy Valley while holding them to go on strike. A second woman was alleged to have assaulted and obstructed a police officer.

In disposing of the case against the first defendant His Worship said that he was satisfied she had no case to answer on the first charge. He could not say that she had behaved in a riotous or disorderly manner although she might have behaved in a manner by which a breach of the peace might have arisen.

On that charge she was acquitted but on the count of holding a meeting she was fined $100 or six weeks' imprisonment.

Mr. d'Almada put his client into the witness box and in reply to questions, she said that she was a packet at the Nanyang Brothers' Tobacco Factory. On Sunday last she was out walking and as she passed the football ground at Happy Valley she noticed a crowd. When she reached the crowd some one pushed against her causing her to knock against a police officer, whose identity she did not know until he seized her and accused her of assaulting him.

His Worship said he was satisfied with the evidence of the prosecution that the defendant had actually seized the sergeant by the neck. She would be fined $50 or four weeks' imprisonment.

WHIST AND BRIDGE DRIVE.

SUCCESSFUL EVENT AT KOWLOON.

Last evening at the Central British School, Kowloon, a successful whilst and bridge drive was held in aid of the Kowloon branch of the Hongkong Women's Guild and Ministering Children's League. There was a good attendance, and a most enjoyable time was spent.

At the conclusion, the prizes were distributed by Mrs. B. Wylie, whilst Mr. Wylie proposed a hearty vote of thanks to Mrs. Cale (Hon. Secretary of the branch) for her work in connexion with the arranging of the function. The prize-winners were as follows:

Bridge.

Ladies: 1st, Mrs. A. Black; 2nd, Miss R. Mow Fung; booby, Mrs. Telfer. Gentlemen: 1st, Mr. Bishop; 2nd, Mr. Polson; booby, Mr. E. Fincher.

Whilst.

Ladies: 1st, Mrs. Hickey; 2nd, Mrs. G. Henderson; booby, Mrs. Groundwater.

Gentlemen: 1st, Mr. J. E. Barrow; 2nd, Capt. Groundwater; booby, Mr. Wylie. Thanks are expressed to Mr. H. C. Tong for a donation of $20; to Messrs. Ruttonge, Nestle Swiss Milk Co., H. C. Tong, Wing On Co., Sincere Co., A. S. Watson and Co., and Mrs. Lyle for prizes; to Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Lloyd Jones, Mrs. Black, Mrs. Reeve, Mrs. Gow and Mrs. Cooper for refreshments; to the Rev. W. W. Rogers for loan of chairs; to the Central British School for loan of hall; to Mrs. Lloyd Jones, Mrs. Mackay, Mrs. Woolley and Mrs. Telfer for valuable assistance.

During the evening, a curio presented by Mr. H. C. Tong was ratified and realised over $18.

OPUM SMUGGLER'S DODGE.

A TELESCOPIC BASKET EMPLOYED.

An opium smuggler caught going ashore from the s.s. Fathian, with 70 tacs of the raw drug concealed in a rattan basket, was to-day fined $2,000, or six months' hard labour by Mr. Lindell at the Central Police Court.

Prosecuting, Revenue Officer Grimmett proved the man's guilty knowledge by stating that the latter, when questioned, was able to give the precise quantity of the drug as well as demonstrate how, by telescoping one basket into another a space was secured between the two bottoms for the concealment of the opium, while giving the two baskets the appearance of one.

Another man who had four tacs strapped to his legs, when arrested, while coming ashore from the Kwong Fook Cheong, was fined $500.

try and convince the British people that the fears may be countered by cautionary measures, or that the fears are baseless.

He saw no reason why federation should not be effected as soon as the difficult matter requiring adjustment could be settled for, while asking for federation, the ruling Princes also asked for the judicial enforcement of the rights of the Sia.

The uncertainty attaching to their conception of the paramountcy, should give place to a clear formula which should be a considered decision by a competent and impartial tribunal.

The Untouchables.

Dr. A. M. Bedkar, speaking on behalf of the "Depressed Classes" or outcastes, said that they wanted Dominion Status with safeguards.

He stated that the "outcastes" made up a community of forty-three millions of people. He explained their position as indubitably distinct from that of any other Indian community, and midway between the serf and the slave, except for the additional handicap of untouchability.

Marking Time.

They had welcomed the British as deliverers from the angelic tyranny and the oppression of orthodox Hindus, but they found that instead of advancing they were marking time.

Only with a Swaraj constitution would they stand a chance of having political power in their own hands, without which they could not bring salvation to their people. They did not want a Government that would only mean a change of masters, but one that was really representative.

Sir Abdul Quayum, representing the North-West frontier, said it was useless to threaten the British Empire, but he claimed equal rights, recalling a local proverb:

"Even a flea in your trousers will make you very uncomfortable."

He expressed the opinion that a federal system was the only way for India to make progress and be united.

He also strongly pressed the claims of the North Western Frontier Province to greater control of its own affairs and urged that it should not be treated as an inferior unit in the federation.

The Parsee Faith.

Sir Pherozie Sethna, a Parsee and a Liberal Moderate, replying to the remarks contained in Lord Peel's speech about vested interests, quoted numerous instances in recent years of preferences, which were practical monopolies, granted to Europeans.

He hoped that when they returned with a constitution, Indian and European merchants would cooperate, side by side, for the advancement of India, England and the Empire.

He emphasised that India could not be satisfied with anything short of Dominion Status, with safeguards during the transition period, and said that Indians, if only given the opportunities, could worthily undertake any position entrusted to them, and the same applied to the army.

Lord Peel Amply Answered.

Sir Pherozie Sethna was continuing his speech, with further criticisms of Lord Peel's views, and had exceeded the time limit, when the Chairman (Mr. Ramsay MacDonald) remarked: "I think I shall now rule that Lord Peel has been very very amply answered."

The Rt. Hon. V. S. Srivastava, Sastri, P.C., said that two ideas had emerged from the debate, those of Dominion Status, which at last seemed to have been accepted by the British Conservative and Liberal spokesmen, and the idea of federation.

A Convert.

The idea of federation was comparatively new. It had struggled hard against, but now he was a convert. (Cheers).

The Princes had brought him round by the sincerity of their declarations and their restraint and moderation.

He hoped that in the committees to which these great topics would go, nothing would be done by those who cared for Federation more than for Dominion Status, to weaken one at the expense of the other.

Mr. Sastri thought that the fears of any Britisher that the machinery of any polity constructed or founded at the conference, any large advance in constitutional status, would pass into the hands of the Indian National Congress Party, who had occasioned the serious situation that led to the convocation of the Round Table Conference, was not unreasonable but the pacificatory steps, now recommended were calculated to win over once more their hearts to the ways of loyalty and ordered progress.

Not Barbarians.

He said that the spokesmen of India were under an obligation to

SOME EXTRACTS FROM THE "TELEGRAPH" FILES.

The following extracts are from the Hongkong Telegraph for the week ended November 20th, 1909.

The rate of the dollar on demand was 18 8/9d.

The following occurs in a leading article referring to... Unofficial criticisms of the Government in the Legislative Council:—"The speeches did nobody any harm and, indeed, were not intended to cause mischief; they simply went off like escaping steam, and there the matter ended."

Mr. Ng Hon-tau was appointed a member of the Sanitary Board in place of Mr. Ho Kom-tong, resigned.

In a cricket match between the Police and the Press, the former won by 99 runs to 69. The winning team comprised K. MacLellan, J. J. Watt, H. V. Parr, T. H. King, W. W. Cooper, D. MacLardy, T. Glendinning, J. B. Baker, A.

THE "TELEGRAPH" ART SUPPLEMENT.

To-morrow's Interesting Pictures.

Once again, the Telegraph Pictorial Supplement will tomorrow contain a varied and interesting selection of topical illustrations.

The official landing of the Governor of Macao will be seen in two excellent pictures, one of which will give a fine close-up of His Excellency with H. E. the Governor of Hongkong. The Hongkong A. D. C.'s production of "The Middle Watch" will be illustrated in scenes taken of this bright and sparkling farce, whilst there will be several pictures taken at the Fanning Hunt steeplechases last Sunday.

Amongst other sporting pictures will be one showing play in the Rugby match between the Club and the Services, whilst another will be a group of players who took part in the annual golf match between the St. Andrew's and St. George's Societies.

Also of particular interest will be two photographs of Lieut. Robert Ho Tung, graduate of the Royal Military Academy at Woolwich and son of Sir Robert Ho Tung. One will show him with General Chang Hsueh-jiang, the Mukden leader to whom he is A.D.C., and the other with a group of Mukden officials on the occasion of the Chinese National Holiday celebrations.

OUR UNEDUCATED SONS.

brings them a proposition, and to know the rules which experienced business men apply to propositions which are placed before them.

The Bankruptcy Court furnishes every day evidence of the need of such training for boys who are to go into business. Every day, businesses large and small are failing because of the ignorance of their owners and managers of elementary finance and sound business. Why is it that year after year the principal cause of the failure of businesses remains the same—that is, embarking on enterprises with insufficient working capital? Simply lack of elementary business education among young, and often among older, men.

It is advertised that Mr. George Buchanan will read a paper on "Calorimetry in Relation to Pulverized Coal" at the Institution of Engineers and Shipbuilders of Hongkong on Friday, December 5th at 6.45 p.m. Mr. R. M. Dyer, C.B.E., B.Sc., M.I.N.A. will preside.

be comparatively inefficient, but they were determined to go through that stage.

We may not manage things as efficiently as Britain is doing now, but it is our affair, and we want to be allowed to manage it ourselves.

Safeguards Obvious.

Mr. Jinnah, another British Indian delegate, said the cardinal principle guiding them in the deliberations was India's desire to be mistress in her own house, and he could not conceive of any constitution they could frame which would not transfer the responsibility to the Central Government or to the Cabinet responsible to it.

Obviously there must be safeguards during the transitional period, and for the interests which existed in India. He welcomed warmly the patriotic attitude of the Princes.

In spite of Mr. Ramsay MacDonald's efforts it was impossible for all the speakers to be heard to-day. The five postponed will be heard to-morrow. Mr. MacDonald undertaking the winding-up speech—Reuters and British Wireless.

DECISION OF THE C.N.A.A.F.

NOT INCONSISTENT WITH HONGKONG'S.

TO-MORROW'S SOCCER.

[By "Wanderer."]

So that's that. A special commission of the China National Amateur Athletic Federation has come to the conclusion that under the amateur rules of the F.E.A.A. and under the amateur rules of the Federation Internationale de Football Associations, players who joined the Chinese soccer tour did not violate their amateur status. It is expected that the decision will lead to an attempt to revive the local controversy on the same issue, though it will save a great deal of unnecessary bother if it does not.

There is no inconsistency about the different decisions. The rules of the International Federation permit of all manner of things which could not be countenanced in Great Britain, and therefore, in Hongkong. The introduction of fresh players when those on the field get tired, and more important, permission for payment for "broken time" are among them. Any finding based on such rules has no face value in Hongkong, and cannot have under any circumstances. It may be more interesting when we learn the decision of the joint commission of the C.N.A.A.F. and the Shanghai Football Association.

The Chinese papers, or one of them, this morning suggested that all the players concerned in the tour had been suspended for twelve months, but there is strong reason to believe that the cable received was mistranslated.

Chinese Athletic are turning out to-morrow, I understand, the fixture list being:

Senior Division.

Chinese Athletic v. Police—Stadium, 4:15. Kowloon v. Royal Artillery—Kowloon, 4:15. Royal Navy v. Club—Navy, H.V.—4:15. Recreio v. South Wales Borderers—Recreio, 4:15. Argylls v. S. China—Sooknupoo, 4:15.

Second Division.

University v. Argylls—Chinese, 2:45. Navy v. Kowloon—Navy, H.V.—2:45. St. Joseph's v. Recreio—St. Joseph's, 2:45. Somerset v. Eastern—Chatham Road, 4:15. South China v. Club—Caroline Hill, 2:45. R.A. Res. v. Athletic Res.—Sooknupoo, 2:45.

Third Division.

R.A.S.C. v. R. Engineers—Chatham Road, 2:45. R.A.O.C. v. R.A.F.—Chinese, H.V.—4:15. Somerset v. Chinese—Stadium, 2:45. Ewo v. South China—St. Joseph's, 4:15.

Two matches are of outstanding interest, the initial appearance of the South Wales Borderers, against the Club de Recreio on the Recreio ground, and the clash of the present league leaders, South China and the Argylls at Sooknupoo.

The Recreio will offer a very fair test of the average standard which the newcomers will be called upon to meet, though the difference in the grounds here and in Egypt gives local team a big advantage in early games.

The Argylls were defeated last week by Kowloon, who lost the previous week to South China. Kowloon therefore would suggest a fairly comfortable win for South China. The Argylls are a team capable of rising to a big occasion, however, and South China were not over-impressive against Kowloon. It would not surprise me to see South China drop their first point or points.

Kowloon should defeat the Royal Artillery, the Athletic will be favoured against the Police and the new team of the Navy will give the Club plenty to think about.

Probable Teams.

Among the probable teams are: Police—Clark; Perkins; Brittain; Thorpe; Oram; Shepherd; Pile; Howarth; Fraser; McGreavy; Brown; Reserves; Cornwall; Williams; Wheeler. Kowloon—Angus; Martin; Pile; Downman; McKelvie; Ellis; Moss; Simpson; Gillett; Hedi; Ianson.

THE AMATEUR STATUS QUESTION.

CHINA ATHLETIC FEDERA-TION GIVES ITS VIEW.

Shanghai, Nov. 20.
The special commission appointed by the China National Amateur Athletic Federation to enquire into the status of the Shanghai members of the Chinese soccer touring party, after several meetings, has decided that:

"Under the amateur rules of the Far Eastern Athletic Association and under the amateur rules of the Federation Internationale de Football Associations, the commission fail to find that the players violated any amateur rules."

It is understood that the Shanghai Football Association commission to enquire into the same matter will commence sitting during the next few days.—Reuter.

The matter concerns the team which toured Malaya, preparatory to a tour of Europe (subsequently cancelled). Two Hongkong members of the team have been dealt with by the local Association—the cause of much recent controversy.

LOCAL CRICKET.

THE H.R.C.C. TEAMS FOR
TO-MORROW.

The H.R.C.C. teams for Saturday, the Civil Service Cricket Club, will be:

1st Team (away)—T. E. Pearce, H. Owen Hughes, A. Reid, E. R. Duckett, A. C. I. Bowker, C. D. Wright, G. R. More, J. Isley, J. W. McFarlane, E. C. Etherington, G. E. R. Devitt, 12th man, C. D. M. Andrew.

2nd Team (home)—W. W. Mackenzie, J. H. Wild, E. J. Collins, H. J. Armstrong, P. W. J. Planner, J. H. Ashworth, D. A. Hutchinson, R. S. W. Paterson, J. Chadwick, G. Wolff, J. R. Hinton, 12th man, J. D. Humphreys.

The Navy Team.

The following will represent the Navy against the Indian R.C. on Saturday:

Senior Division.

Chinese Athletic v. Police—Stadium, 4:15. Kowloon v. Royal Artillery—Kowloon, 4:15.

Royal Navy v. Club—Navy, H.V.—4:15.

Recreio v. South Wales Borderers—Recreio, 4:15.

Argylls v. S. China—Sooknupoo, 4:15.

Second Division.

University v. Argylls—Chinese, 2:45.

Navy v. Kowloon—Navy, H.V.—2:45.

St. Joseph's v. Recreio—St. Joseph's, 2:45.

Somerset v. Eastern—Chatham Road, 4:15.

South China v. Club—Caroline Hill, 2:45.

R.A. Res. v. Athletic Res.—Sooknupoo, 2:45.

Third Division.

R.A.S.C. v. R. Engineers—Chatham Road, 2:45.

R.A.O.C. v. R.A.F.—Chinese, H.V.—4:15.

Somerset v. Chinese—Stadium, 2:45.

Ewo v. South China—St. Joseph's, 4:15.

The Signals played a dashing game, a fast pace being maintained throughout. They deserved their success if only for the manner in which they seized their opportunities.

The homesters, at full strength in the second half, gave a greatly improved display, and after T. J. Price had netted, Martin added a second point in the last minute of the match.

Club v. Army.

Owing to the inability of the Army to raise a team, the match arranged between them and the Hongkong Hockey Club, yesterday, was scratch-ed.

Endeavours were made to fix up a game with the Navy, but they experienced a similar difficulty in obtaining the requisite eleven.

R.A.:—Fletcher; Frearson, Taylor; Gough, Joyce, Green-shields; Wood, Allon, Moore, McDonald (or G.H.), Woods, Club;—Rodger; Strange, Blaup; A. N. Other; Stewart, Watson; G. Duncan, Segalen, McBride, A. Duncan, Fowler.

C.R.C. TENNIS
"AT HOME."

GOOD PROGRAMME FOR
TO-MORROW.

An attractive programme of exhibition tennis matches has been arranged for the annual "At Home" of the Chinese Recreation Club tomorrow afternoon, when the Champions of the B. and C. Divisions of the Hongkong Tennis League will meet the Rest.

The C.R.C. were successful in holding both of these divisions in the 1930 season, and their respective teams will meet the following:

"B" Division.—J. W. Leonard (capt.) and W. J. Howard (Craigen-gower), S. A. R. Bux and M. O. Hoosen (India Recreation Club), Wong Sui-wing and Li U-wing (South China).

"C" Division.—Y. F. Chow (capt.) and D. J. Anderson (University), D. A. Razack and A. K. Snifford (Indian Recreation Club), G. A. Norona and L. A. Ribeiro (Club de Recreio).

During the afternoon, the trophies for Division 1, and the Mixed Doubles League will also be presented to the Indian Recreation Club, winners of both competitions, but they will not take part in exhibition matches.

Lady Shouson Chow is to distribute the trophies and there is every indication that to-morrow's event will be one of the most successful ever staged by the C.R.C.

Heart Hungry

LAURA LOU BROOKMAN

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Adventure enters the life of Celia Mitchell, 17, when she learns the father she has supposed dead is alive and healthy. She leaves home for New York with her father, John Mitchell, and her aristocratic grandmother, Margaret Rogers, her mother, Mrs. Mitchell, and her maid, Mrs. Parsons, who are staying in a hotel. Mrs. Parsons, writing newspaper photographs, is in love with the girl, and before leaving Baltimore, Celia promises to be loyal to her love, and to keep her secret.

Mitchell asks Evelyn Parsons, her beautiful widow, to introduce the girl to young people. Mrs. Parsons considers Celia a messiah who will bring the world to her feet. She takes the girl to a grand home for a dubious evening.

Ted Jordan, racing but with a dubious future, is attracted to Celia, and Mrs. Parsons encourages the match. When the other guests leave Celia continues her visit. Miss Duncan, socially prominent, invites her to a party. Celia goes to the party, escapes drowning, and is rescued by Jordan. Her father hears of the affair and insists she must return home. The same evening Jordan tells Celia he loves her, and Celia tells him she loves him. She returns to New York next day and receives a telephone call.

CHAPTER XXV

"Who is it?" Celia demanded eagerly. She held the French telephone close to her ear.

The "gentleman" at the other end of the line was a butler explaining that Miss Lisi Duncan wished to speak to Miss Mitchell. A moment later Celia heard Lisi's gay voice.

"That you, Celia?" she asked. "Evelyn told me you'd gone home. I telephoned her a few moments ago. Listen, how're you feeling to-day?"

"Oh, I'm all right!" Surely, Celia thought to herself, she must have said that a thousand times in the last 24 hours.

"Fine," Honey, I want you to have lunch with me to-morrow. I'm going to drive in and I'll pick you up about 1:30. That O. K.?"

Celia thought it would be. It cheered her immensely to think Lisi wanted to be friendly. She promised to be ready.

"That's settled then. By-bye, honey!"

After Celia put down the telephone she wondered if her grandmother could object. It would be horrible to have to call off the engagement. She decided to wait until her father arrived home before mentioning the luncheon party.

He came shortly after four, asking immediately for his daughter. The girl was reading.

"Home again!" Mitchell called as he entered the library. "Well, Celia let's hear all about this casualty of yours!"

"Oh, father, I can't understand how it happened. One minute I was swimming along and the next the wave came over me and I thought I was sinking."

Mitchell sat down beside her, asked questions. He wanted to know the name of the young man who had saved her. Celia, with trembling eagerness, told him. She explained she had met Jordan at Evelyn Parsons'.

"Oh, yes? Well, I wouldn't stand on little point of etiquette if I were drowning!" he said dryly.

Celia laughed. She explained she wasn't referring to social proprieties, but thought Mitchell might remember seeing Jordan.

Her father shook his head.

"Can't say I do," he said. "Then he wrote down the name. 'Well—I'll look after this young man—'"

"But I'm sure he wouldn't—I mean I don't think he'd accept money or anything like that!" she protested.

Mitchell put the memorandum book back into his pocket.

"Never mind about that," he said. "Celia, I had a pretty uncomfortable half hour last night before I knew you were safe." There was emotion in his voice that surprised the girl. Mitchell put out a hand and took Celia's, and for a moment there was understanding silence between them.

"I must run upstairs and dress," the girl said, rising. She was afraid to show how deeply she had been touched. Before she reached the door, Celia remembered Lisi and the luncheon engagement. She told her father about it.

"That's all right," he said. "I want you to have plenty of young friends. I'll speak to your grandmother."

She thanked him and went on out of the room.

There was a letter from Celia's mother next morning. It was not the first the girl had received from Mrs. Rogers since arriving in New York, but coming at this particular time, its effect was profound. Celia was at her dressing table lazily polishing her nails when Martha knocked on the door and gave her the letter.

The girl greeted the familiar handwritting with delight. Then she ran to the chaise longue, sank down and tore open the envelope.

"My darling child" was the salutation. Celia read on quickly. There was little news. Mrs. Rogers wrote that she was feeling well and very busy. It was the vacation season and two of the flitters at Margot's were away. Of course it was the slack season, but still she and Tilly Dennis had their hands full. It had been very warm,

COMMUNISM'S WANING STRENGTH.

NUMBERS FALLING EVERYWHERE.

Figures published in the Pravda indicate that the Communist parties in the most important European countries, except that in Germany, which remained stable, experienced substantial declines in membership in the last two years, despite the economic difficulties which the Communists naturally utilized for the purposes of their agitation. From the middle of 1928 until February, 1930, the British Communist Party declined from 9,000 to 3,200, the French from 52,000 to 38,000, the Czechoslovak from 150,000 to 35,000, while the German party, with 124,000, showed no change.

"I hope you are very happy with your new friends," the last paragraph read, "but remember, above all else, to take care of yourself. Write soon. Oh, my darling, how I love you. Your Mother."

After the girl had finished reading it she sat for a long time looking down at the letter. It brought back sharply everything in the life she had left. Mother, Barney, she saw them through different eyes. She was glad she had written both of them Monday. She should have done so earlier. Somehow, there seemed little time to write. There was so much else to do. Her precursors must! Celia thought of her mother going to work, bending over her sewing through hou days. Was she really well? A wave of revulsion swept over the girl as she thought of Margaret Rogers' long toll and privations and the luxury with which she herself was surrounded.

Finally she folded the letter and put it under a pile of literature in a drawer of the dressing table.

Celia and Lisi drove toward Broadwater. Celia dared not admit it was her first view of that famous thoroughfare. Her father and grandmother apparently had little interest in the theatre.

In the afternoon sun she thought the great electric signs looked hideous and the street had a cheap dismal air. It was very hot. Curious looking men and women passed. Carruthers left them in front of the theatre which to Celia was one of the ugliest.

All the way to Grammercy Park Lisi chattered of the young man's attractions.

"You know," she said impulsively, "I like you, Celia. I knew I could depend on you. You're on the level!"

Celia replied that she liked Lisi too. It was agreed they should meet again soon. Then Lisi departed and Celia entered the house.

The next day was dreary but on Saturday Mrs. Mitchell and Celia drove to Westchester to attend a society fair for the benefit of charity. It was one of the charities of which Mrs. Mitchell served as a board member.

Celia was not interested until she visited the fortune teller's tent. Her grandmother, by an odd quirk of character, had the greatest faith in seers.

"Ask her to read your future!" Mrs. Mitchell urged and the girl went into the brightly festooned bower.

She offered her palm to the aged eyes.

"Can you see anything there?" Celia asked as she sat down.

The old woman studied the hand several moments.

"Sweethearts," she muttered. "Two of them. One handsome!"

The gypsy's sharp eyes darted upward and her voice rose "I see—Danger!"

"It was a good part," Carruthers put in. He explained to Celia that he played juvenile roles and preferred drama though he had appeared in musical comedies.

The luncheon was appetizing. Celia devoted herself to the creamed sweetbread and salad and let the others talk. It was interesting to hear this familiar gossip of the stage. Somehow, she had expected an actor to be a more glamorous person than Richard Brandon Carruthers.

At 3:30 they left the restaurant. Dicky was to report at the theatre at four. They all climbed into the

PILSUDSKI ATTACKS THE DIET.

DEMOCRACY AT POINT OF REVOLVER.

Marshal Pilsudski, the Polish Cromwell, who never loses an opportunity for condemning the shortcomings of the Diet, has given the Gazeta Polska an interview, in which he expresses himself as forcibly as usual about his opponents in that Assembly.

After condemning what he describes as "democracy at the point of the revolver," Marshal Pilsudski said the impotency of the Diet literary made him fall ill. Finally the Marshal advised the President of the Republic to dissolve the Diet and to resort to a General Election. "Poland at the elections has to reply to the question whether she wishes Polish Dicta to resemble those which existed before the partition of Poland or whether she means to break with these traditions of past."

Marshal Pilsudski ended with a parting shot. "I am convinced," he said, "that the electors are better than their representatives have been so far."

SOMERSETS' BOXING TOURNAMENT.

Although no weights were announced at Murray Barracks last night, the boxers were evenly matched so far as weight was concerned. The Somersets had the honours by seven fights to five, the scraps being of three two-minute rounds with the exception of the boys' events. All were keenly contested.

At the conclusion, Major H. R. E. Bennett, M.C., after a short speech in which he remarked how pleased he was to have seen the many boxing contests in Hongkong between his unit and other units and formations, and how sorry he was to leave all the friends he had made in the Colony, called upon the Inspector-General of Police (Hon. Mr. E. D. C. Wolfe, C.M.G.) to present the prizes.

The Inspector-General, replying, said how sorry he was to have to say good-bye to the Somersets, although the battalion had given his own people little or nothing to do during their stay in Hongkong. He was very pleased to be there, and was feeling very honoured in being asked to present the prizes.

The Fight Described.

The first bout was between L/Sgt. Lloyd (Police) and Pte. Brand, S.L.I. Left leads on both sides were stalled off in the first round, the only clinch breaking in favour of Brand. Several smart exchanges saw Lloyd's right getting in well, but Brand came back with a left-right-left in the last round to bring his points up well. The later exchanges were open, with neither finding a chance to score well. Lloyd was given the verdict.

Capt. Cornand, who was removed in the early rounds of the Somersets' open competition last week, put up a surprise by knocking out L/Sgt. McGreavy (Police) in the first round. Keen exchanges in the earlier stages went in favour of McGreavy, but the latter had little stamina, and a few hard bangs to the head after some clinching saw a right to the side of the head by Hector put McGreavy on the canvas for the count.

The fight between P. C. Weare and L/Cpl. Woodhouse, S.L.I., was marked by hard hitting on both sides. Weare attacked strongly in the first round, but a succession of well-timed swings by Woodhouse had the former a little unsteady. Clever boxing in the second round only kept Weare from being knocked out, and in the third round, Woodhouse could not quite get in the vital punch, though he got the verdict on points. Weare is to be congratulated on a very game fight, and stood up well to a lot of punishment.

Boy Curtis defeated Boy Wride in their contest, though the former was rather late with his right in the first round. Honours were even in the second round, but Curtis was the more aggressive in the last round, to gain the decision.

A Fine Series.

P. C. Clarke, lost to Pte. Webb, S.L.I., on points after a good fight. Clarke started well with two rights and a left to the head, with Webb fighting back well, and good in work. Webb lost points in the second round in trying for a ko., and a left-right to the point in the last round did not quite knock out Clarke.

Pte. Bull, S.L.I., knocked out P. C. Dwyer, in the first round, though the latter fought fiercely, at first. Bull carried his right back to Dwyer, and gave a lot of punishment before the latter went down for the count.

Boy Griffiths, II. M. S. Berwick, lost to Boy Rootes, S.L.I. in a very good fight. Both had very good guards, and very few points were scored with outright hits. Rootes having the better of those that were.

P. C. Hemsley won on points from Pte. O'Keeffe, S.L.I. in a good scrap getting the first round with good work to the body, though O'Keeffe had a clip or two to the head that hurt.

VALE DICTORY.

CAPT. CORNAND OF YUET ON RETIRING.

The many friends of Capt. G. S. Cornand, who for the last four years has been master of the river steamer Yuet On, will be interested to hear that he has severed connexions with this vessel and will shortly sail for Java on retirement.

Capt. Cornand came out to China in 1902 and until 1907 he was in command of several vessels plying in Chinese waters. During those five years, he met with several exciting incidents, but one which, to use his own words, will remain in his memory for ever, was when the terrible typhoon of September, 1906, struck Hongkong. Capt. Cornand was then in command of the s.s. Emdenburg, which, as some old residents will probably remember, was battered about in the harbour during this typhoon and suffered extensive damage.

It was about a year after this typhoon that Capt. Cornand returned to Germany, his home country, and for some years he was in command of several vessels in the Hamburg-African service. Just before the War, he was appointed Director of Fisheries in Germany.

When War broke out, he enlisted, but was captured after the War had been in progress for only a few months. He was kept a prisoner in France for sometime but was later exchanged. He returned to Germany and in 1918 he was commander of an auxiliary cruiser.

Capt. Cornand came out East again a few years ago and has been master of the s.s. Yuet On for the last four years. His successor on this vessel is understood, in Capt. Rosiesky, who was formerly in command of the s.s. Deawawang.

Capt. Cornand is 55 years of age. He obtained his master's ticket in 1899, when he was only 27. He will leave the Colony on Tuesday next on the Dutch vessel Tjandjari for Java, in which country Capt. Cornand will probably spend the rest of his days. He has relatives there, and when he sails he will carry away with him the best wishes of his many friends in Hongkong.

The fight between P. C. Weare and L/Cpl. Woodhouse, S.L.I., was marked by hard hitting on both sides. Weare had the better of the third round, with two-handed hits to head and body.

O. S. Spettigue, II. M. S. Berwick had the better of Pte. Shadick, S.L.I., winning on points after a good fight. Shadick had the better of the first round, though Spettigue's guard made him hard to hit. Spettigue was nearly knocked out in the second round with a vicious right upper-cut that only missed by a hairsbreadth. Shadick was only saved by the bell in the third round, and Spettigue had given plenty of hits to the head and chin.

An Old Comrade.

P. C. Perkins, late of the Somersets, knocked out Pte. Cullen of his old unit in the second round. Cullen had the better of the first round, and Perkins had to cover up. Some close work in the second round saw Cullen dropped by a nice clip to the jaw.

Pte. Gaskell, II. M. S. Berwick, lost to Pte. Peirman, S.L.I., on points. It was a good fight between science and hard leads, the soldier boy having the science. Good rights and lefts gave him the first two rounds, and though Gaskell got in a right and left to the head in the last round, he could not peg Peirman back.

The last fight was sensational. I. A. C. Collins, R.A.F., was opposed to Pte. Baile, S.L.I., and the first two rounds went wholly in favour of the latter, though seeming dazed as he went to his corner. In the last round, he developed a fine right, but Baile on the ropes and virtually out, and finally dropped him just before the bell. It was a particularly fine scrap, as Baile was reckoned one of the finest and fittest boxers amongst the Somersets, and only the fact that his earlier punches were not quite hard enough made it possible for Collins to come back and win.

NO DIVIDEND BY N.Y.K.

POSSIBLE HEAVY DRAIN ON REVENUES.

At its directors' board meeting a week ago, says the Japan Times, the tentative plan was adopted by the Nippon Yusen Kaisha for passing dividend payments to stockholders for the half-year business term ending on September 30. This rather drastic step is found imperative by men in charge of the biggest shipping company of Japan because of a fearful drain on freight revenues during the past months despite their remarkable performance in expenditure curtailment amounting to a couple of million yen for the same period. Reports are current that a further large scale reduction and shifting around in the company's personnel may take place between now and November 28 when the general meeting of stockholders will be held to discuss the non-dividend plan.

Attitude of Management.

The news of this bold decision, which is characteristic of the President, Mr. Kenkichi Nagami, is proving very unpleasant reading to the thousands of N.Y.K. shareholders. The criticism is made by some that Mr. Nagami probably wants to conduct the affairs of a shipping concern after the manner of an ultra-conservative bank, trust company or insurance firm, his speciality. Explanation is made, however, that this drastic dividend action is introduced by the management on the assumption that the present business slump will be of the duration of a couple of years and to cope with any difficult situation which may crop up in the meantime a conservation of capital resources within the concern is essential even if shareholders are deprived of their distribution at this time.

Reduction in Freight.

Officials of the shipping company stated to the press that the current term and reduction in freight revenues of about Y. 6,000,000 and passenger revenue gains have amounted to Y. 1,000,000 mainly because of heavy loadings for the newly built super-hulks. To make the situation worse the company had to write off the value of its securities portfolio in keeping with the downward course in their markets. The company estimates the net loss for the term at Y. 5,500,000 which is filled up by raiding the dividend equalization fund amounting to Y. 6,750,000, the balance Y. 183,000 being carried forward to the next term.

Rough Balance Sheet.

The following is a rough balance sheet figures given out by the company:

Operating revenues	Y. 34,600
Operating expenditures	32,442
Gross profits	2,427
Depreciation for vessels	4,444
Hull insurance reserves	72
Reserves for ship repair	1,010
Real estate depreciation reserves	139
	5,667
Operating loss for the term	6,278
Securities depreciation	3,037
Total deficit for the term	12,375
Carry over from previous	711
Net loss for the current term	5,566

CONSERVATIVE WAY TO RECOVERY.

EMERGENCY TARIFFS FOR THE CRITICAL PERIOD.

London, Nov. 20. Mr. Neville Chamberlain, the chairman of the Conservative Party organisation in a speech yesterday said that in the Conservative view there were different ways in which the present economic situation should be tackled.—Firstly, by a reduction of direct taxation, which involved a reduction of the home market; then by development of imperial trade through reciprocal trading agreements.

A bolder and more rapid policy than safeguarding was necessary, and although time would be required for building up a scientific and carefully adjusted tariff, an emergency tariff for the protection of home manufacturers could be introduced in a comparatively short time, sufficient to restore the confidence of employers and workers alike. Behind the emergency tariff they could enter the negotiations and investigations necessary before putting their defences into a final form.—British Wireless.

GOVERNOR OF MACAO.

HONoured BY INDO-CHINA GOVERNMENT.

Friends of Senhor Barbosa and the Portuguese community in Hongkong will be glad to learn that a telegram has been received in the colony to the effect that His Excellency has had conferred on him the Grand Cross of the Royal Order of Cambodia and that Commander Cabral, of the Aviation Force, who accompanied Senhor Barbosa on his recent visit to Hongkong as his private secretary, has received the Cross of an Officer of the Order of Annam.

It is understood that the distinctions conferred upon the Portuguese officials by the Indo-China Government were in recognition of the timely services rendered to the French aviators whose aeroplane came to grief not far from Macao, when an Indo-China squadron was attempting a flight, in July last, from Hanoi to Canton. The French aviator, M. Terrasser, before leaving Macao expressed his gratitude to the Portuguese officials for the assistance rendered, when the aeroplane was damaged by the villagers, for the small value that the parts might have realised.

GEN. CHAN CHAI-TONG BACK IN CANTON.

POSSIBILITIES OF AN END TO KWANGSI WARFARE.

Canton, Nov. 20. General Chan Chai-tong, C.I.C. of the 8th Route Army, who had been in Kwangsi directing the campaign against the insurgents since last month, left Wuchow yesterday morning on the gunboat "Chap Shun" for Samshui, where he entrained for Canton, arriving at Shek Wal Tong Station at 7.20 last evening.

Interviewed upon arrival, General Chan told pressmen that his object in returning to Canton was to make the pre-arranged arrangements for Kwangtung province during the winter season.

Asked about the situation in Kwangsi, General Chan indicated that there was a lull for the time being, and that if Li Chung-yun, Pei Chung-hsi, Wang Shao-hung and Chang Fat-kwai should at last repent and show real loyalty to the Central Government, the Kwangsi trouble would be terminated by pacific means. General Chan admitted that representatives of the Ironside-Kwangsi faction had been sent to Wuchow submitting their surrender, and should their submission be genuine, the General would be happy to accept it.

It is understood that during General Chan's absence from Kwangsi, General Yu Han-mow of the 50th division will take charge of the military affairs at the front and General Li Yang-king and Chief Councillor Mu Pai-nan of the affairs of the Provisional H.Q. at Wuchow.—Canton News Agency.

TARIFF AUTONOMY ACCOMPLISHED.

SINO-DUTCH AGREEMENT SIGNED AT NANKING.

Nanking, Nov. 20. A new Sino-Dutch agreement, in which the Dutch Government formally consents to the recognition of China's tariff autonomy, has been signed between the Dutch Minister to Peking, now visiting Nanking, and Dr. C. T. Wang, the Nanking Foreign Minister.

In this connexion, a spokesman of the Foreign Ministry this morning told newspaper correspondents that the signing of this agreement marks the completion of Chinese tariff autonomy. The spokesman states that so far twelve foreign Powers have formally recognized the tariff autonomy of China.

All the distinguished Peking diplomats, including several Ministers to China, have departed from Nanking after the ceremonies in celebration of the Nanking victory. The British, French and Dutch Ministers to China are remaining at Nanking to discuss outstanding issues with Dr. C. T. Wang. The French Minister conferred with Dr. Wang yesterday.

Formal Ratification.

Nanking, Nov. 20. The ratifications of the Sino-Dutch tariff autonomy treaty, signed in December, 1928, have been exchanged by Dr. C. T. Wang, the Foreign Minister, and Sir William Oudendijk, the Netherlands Minister to China.—Reuter.

Formal Ratification.

M. Albert Oustric, director of the Oustric Bank, which failed earlier this month, has been charged with fraud and illicit operations on the Bourse.

The Magistrate appointed three experts to examine the Bank's accounts, M. Oustric appointing a fourth.

M. Oustric before the war was a waiter in a Toulouse cafe, and natural business talent secured him a high position in an armament firm during the war. He afterwards organised a gigantic trust of all the French footwear manufacturers.—Reuter.

REMARKABLE CAREER OF A FORMER WAITER.

Paris, Nov. 20.

M. Albert Oustric, director of the Oustric Bank, which failed earlier this month, has been charged with fraud and illicit operations on the Bourse.

The Magistrate appointed three experts to examine the Bank's accounts, M. Oustric appointing a fourth.

M. Oustric before the war was a waiter in a Toulouse cafe, and natural business talent secured him a high position in an armament firm during the war. He afterwards organised a gigantic trust of all the French footwear manufacturers.—Reuter.

COMMISSIONER TO S. AFRICA.

CEYLON GOVERNOR GIVEN NEW TO POST.

NEW DEVELOPMENT.

London, Nov. 20.
Sir Herbert Stanley has been selected as the first High Commissioner for the United Kingdom in South Africa.

It is officially explained that the post has been introduced in view of the further development of the system of communication and consultation between His Majesty's Governments and is comparable to that held in Canada by Sir William Clark.

It has been decided to combine this post with the already existing post of High Commissioner in South Africa which the Earl of Athlone shortly relinquished together with that of the Governor-Generalship.—Reuter.

Sir Herbert James Stanley, K.C.M.G., has been Governor of Ceylon since 1927. After holding various Private Secretariats, including that to the Lord President of the Council from 1908 to 1910, he became Private Secretary to the Governor-General of South Africa, which post he held from 1910 to 1913, becoming Secretary to the latter year to 1915. From 1916 to 1918 he was Resident Commissioner in Southern and Northern Rhodesia, whilst from 1919 to 1921 he was Imperial Secretary in South Africa. He then became for three years Governor of Northern Rhodesia.

Sir William Clark has been High Commissioner in Canada for H.M. Government since 1928. He has had a lengthy career and in 1901 he was Secretary to the Special Mission to Shanghai to promote a Commercial Treaty with China.

MRS. BRUCE ON FINAL STAGE.

HOPS FROM SEOUL FOR OSAKA.

Seoul, Nov. 21.
The Hon. Mrs. Victor Bruce hopped off on the final stage of her flight from England to Japan at 9.20 this morning, when she left here for Osaka.—Reuter.

Tokyo, Nov. 21.
With the expected arrival of Mrs. Bruce here to-morrow or the next day, preparations have been made by British and Japanese to extend her a royal welcome.

Mrs. Bruce's long solo flight is given prominence in the vernacular newspapers, as she is the first woman to attempt the hazardous adventure.

Osaka, where she is due this afternoon, has likewise prepared a hearty welcome. A banquet is to be given in honour of the noted airwoman this evening.—Reuter.

THE OUSTRIC BANK SENSATION.

FURTHER CHARGES LAID AGAINST DIRECTOR.

Paris, Nov. 20.
M. Albert Oustrie, director of the Oustrie Bank, former Toulousian waiter, and later the organizer of a gigantic footwear trust, who was this morning charged with fraud and illicit operations on the Bourse, has been further charged, inter alia, with fictitious securities in connexion with the case pending against the famous financier, Roquette, who was sentenced to several years imprisonment some years ago.

Four other persons are charged with Oustrie in this matter.

The Rules Commission on the Chamber to-day adopted the text of a motion in favour of a Parliamentary Commission to enquire into the Oustrie affair.—Reuter.

THE DISARMAMENT PARLEY.

ATTENTION NOW TURNED TO THE AIR.

Geneva, Nov. 20.
Good progress has been made by the Disarmament Committee, which has disposed of the complete draft dealing with naval limitation and now embarks on air armament and national expenditure.—Reuter.

The proposals adopted include figures borrowed from existing treaties, to serve as an indication, and articles submitted by the five delegations to the London Naval Conference including the stiffening of decks of merchant ships for mounting guns not exceeding 6.1-inch guns.—Reuter.

Among the passengers leaving to-day by the s.s. Taiping for Australia is Mr. M. Manuk of the Dairy Farm Co. Ltd. Mr. Manuk expects to be away from the Colony for a little over a year.

COUNCIL REFORM IN SINGAPORE.

ELECTION OF UNOFFICIALS APPROVED.

PANEL OF VOTERS.

The question of Council reform has recently been discussed by the Straits Settlements (Singapore) Association, which, at a meeting held on November 10th, considered the following schemes:

1. Unofficial majority in both Executive and Legislative Councils.
2. Equality in both Executive and Legislative Councils. Casting vote to His Excellency.
3. Official majority in Executive Council. Unofficial majority in Legislative Council.

4. Official majority in both Executive and Legislative Councils.
5. Official majority in Executive Council. Equality in Legislative Council with casting vote to H.E.
6. Equality in Executive Council. Unofficial majority in Legislative Council.

A majority vote of 8 to 1 was in favour of No. 2, viz., equality in both Councils with casting vote to His Excellency.

Direct Election.

The meeting, by a majority, was in favour of the election of the Unofficial Members of the Legislative Council, and it was suggested that Panel of Voters be composed such Panel to consist only of British subjects who are:

- (1) Municipal Commissioners.
- (2) Justices of the Peace (3) Members of Advisory Boards (4) Members of Chambers of Commerce (5) Special Juries (6) Common Juries
- (7) Managers and Per Pros (8) Professional Men (i.e., Accountants, Advocates and Solicitors, Architects, Bankers, Brokers, Qualified Civil and other Engineers, Registered Dentists, Registered Medical Practitioners, Underwriters and Master Mariners), (9) Ratepayers and (10) Volunteers.

No person to have more than one vote.

It was suggested that the constitution of the Executive Council should be as follows:—H.E. Governor, the Colonial Secretary, the Colonial Treasurer, the Attorney-General, the Commissioner of Lands, the Secretary for Chinese Affairs, three European and two Chinese members, and that Unofficial Members of the Executive Council should be selected by H.E. the Governor, and need not necessarily be members of the Legislative Council.

It was decided to send copies of all letters received from kindred Associations and copies of the above minutes to all members of the committee and to adjourn further discussion until next meeting.

SUBSIDY TO OPERA IN BRITAIN.

ANNOUNCED BY MR. PHILIP SNOWDEN.

London, Nov. 20.
A substantial subsidy to opera was announced by Mr. Philip Snowden, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, at question-time in the House of Commons to-day.

The Chancellor foreshadowed revised agreement between the Postmaster-General and the British Broadcasting Corporation, under which the Government would grant £5,000 in the present year, and £17,500 each year thereafter for five years, towards the presentation of opera in London and the Provinces.

The necessary funds would be provided by the B.B.C. and by private subscription.—Reuter.

GOVERNMENT & THE COTTON TRADE.

MR. CLYNES AND MR. GRAHAM INVESTIGATING.

London, Nov. 20.
Important results in the cotton industry are expected to follow a series of meetings at which Mr. J. R. Clynes, the Home Secretary, and Mr. William Graham, the President of the Board of Trade, have been investigating at first hand the difficulties of all sections of the trade.

At Manchester to-day, they interviewed the representatives of the Master Cotton Spinners' Association, after which it was officially stated that the discussion centred upon the formation of larger units and the effect of external factors upon prosperity.—Reuter.

FINE WEATHER.

The Royal Observatory reports that the anticyclone remains over the Yangtze Valley and has weakened slightly. The depression is situated in the eastern part of the Sea of Japan. Moderate to fresh monsoon will prevail over the North China Sea. The local forecast is:—N.E. winds, moderate.

STRANGE SEQUEL TO THEFT CASE.

MIXED GOLD AND SILVER THOUGHT SOLDER!

WORTH OVER $1,250.

A remarkable sequel to a case decided by Mr. Butters, at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday morning, in which a Chinese was fined $10 or fourteen days imprisonment for stealing a piece of "solder," occurred this morning, when the same defendant was charged with stealing 39 taels of mixed gold and silver, valued at $1,300, the property of Chang Cheung-pang, the Manager of the Cheung Lee godown.

An alternative charge of having received property which he knew to have been stolen was preferred. When the case was heard yesterday, Detective Sergeant C. Browne, prosecuting, said that the defendant was arrested by an Indian constable about 2.30 a.m. on Thursday. He refused to be searched and was taken to the Yau-mat police station, where "the solder" was found concealed in his jacket.

This morning the defendant pleaded to the charge of receiving. He said that he did not steal the alloy himself. A friend had stolen it and given it to him to take to a house in Temple Street.

Sergeant Browne said that he had no evidence to prove the actual theft of the alloy. He was prepared to accept the statement of the defendant.

The complainant said he received the gold and silver ore which was mixed with mud from a goldsmith, for the purpose of melting down and sifting. It was put into the furnace with no-one to look after it, and evidently the defendant or somebody else, who must have been an expert, had taken it out.

Mr. Butters convicted on the new charge, and sentenced defendant to three months' imprisonment.

How it Happened.

It appears that after defendant was convicted yesterday, he was detained pending the payment of his fine. During this time, a fakir appeared at the station and complained to one of the court officials of the loss of the gold and silver, and asked if he knew anything about the matter.

The official informed him that a man had been fined for the larceny of a piece of "solder," whereupon the fakir piled him with questions, and asked to go to the Yau-mat police station and see the Inspector. He went there and was shown the piece of "solder," and at once identified it as the gold and silver mixture. Mr. Butters was informed of the matter, and the conviction for receiving "solder" was quashed, and the new charge substituted.

PRISON OUTRAGE SEQUEL.

WARDER MAY ATTEND COURT NEXT WEEK.

The prospect of Mr. Bert Plum, who was stabbed in Victoria Gaol by a prisoner, being able to attend Court next week, was mentioned by Detective Inspector Shannon before Mr. Williams, at the Central Police Court this morning, when the officer asked that the case against the alleged assailant be adjourned until Monday morning.

The prisoner, Chiu Siu-chung, is charged with having wounded Mr. Plum, acting Principal Warden at Victoria Gaol on the morning of October 22, with intent to maim.

His Worship (to Detective Inspector Shannon):—I understand you wish for a remand till Monday at 11 o'clock?

Inspector Shannon (to prisoner):—Yes. You are remanded till Monday for the same reasons as before.

Inspector Shannon:—You may be ready to go on; I am not sure but will let you know on Monday.

Defendant:—Why can't the hearing take place to-day?

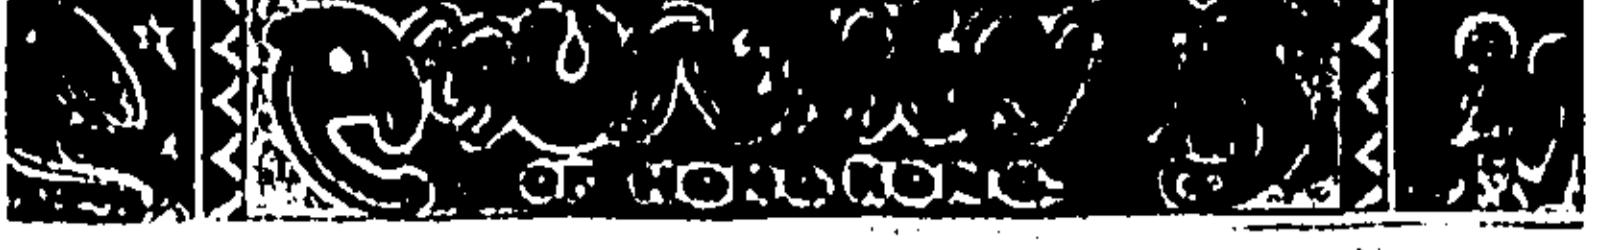

His Worship:—Because you must wait until the principal witness is ready.

The defendant was remanded till Monday at 11 o'clock.
